Services We Offer

Audit & Assurance

A systematic scrutiny of books of accounts & statutory records to verify the financial position of an organization. It is legally mandated for all free zone companies doing business in UAE to submit their annual audit report with their respective authorities.

Auditors have a vital role to play in a business organization as it indicates the overall health of the business. Investors & management use audit as a tool to assess past performance and formulate future course of action.

Based on the objective for which it is being performed, an audit can be of various types:

Internal Audit

Higher management use internal audit as an assurance to check all operations are being carried out effectively. Our competent auditors will provide an independent and objective assessment of your company's operations, specifically the effectiveness of the internal control structure.

External Audit

Also known as statutory financial audit, a firm doing business in UAE has to submit its audit report 3-6 months within end of the financial year. We are approved by the Ministry of Economy to act as a licensed auditor. We are listed in all major free zones & our audit reports are accepted across UAE.

Tax Audit

Today's multinational corporations are facing the most challenging tax environment in history because of a combination of four global forces converging to create a perfect storm. The unstable environment created by these forces is resulting in a substantial increase in the number and size of tax audits, adjustments, and disputes. This surge is placing significant strain on the traditional methods of resolving tax controversies.

Revenue Audit

A revenue audit is a two-part process that examines the figures and information on a company's tax returns against those found in its business records. In general, auditors check the returns of income over a one-year period. However, they may review records for prior years too in case they notice any discrepancies.

Most companies, big and small, are subject to an audit at some point. Auditors can focus on one or more areas, such as your financial statements, compliance, tax information or business operations. Basically, their role is to investigate an existing report, system or entity. During a revenue audit, for example, a company's tax returns will be compared to its tax records. This can be done through substantive tests, completeness tests, cutoff tests and other procedures.

Interim Audit

An interim audit is part of audit strategy where audit testing is performed on interim financial statements or near the balance sheet date. This audit strategy is done for more efficient audit execution of procedures at the annual audit or final audit testing.

Frequently, an interim audit is also performed as the result of the request from the client as a response to financial institutions who are requiring their interim financial statements to be reviewed every quarter by the independent audit firm to be submitted to local regulator or authority and banks.

Accounting & Bookkeeping

Tax accounting is the means of accounting for tax purposes. It applies to all individuals, businesses, corporations, and other entities. Even those who are exempted from paying taxes must participate in tax accounting. The purpose of tax accounting is to be able to track funds associated with individuals and entities. Without these accounting records, financial analysis will be tough; hence, financial mismanagement may occur.

Accounting

From a business perspective, more information must be analyzed as part of the tax accounting process. While the company's earnings, or incoming funds, must be tracked just as they are for the individual, there is an additional level of complexity regarding any outgoing funds directed towards certain business obligations. This can include funds directed towards specific business expenses as well as funds directed towards shareholders. It is recommended that a businesses use a tax accountant to perform these duties, due to the complexity of the records involved.

Bookkeeping

Bookkeeping is the systematic recording and organising of financial transactions in a company. Bookkeeping is the recording, on a day-to-day basis, of the financial transactions and information pertaining to a business. It ensures that records of the individual financial transactions are correct, up-to-date and comprehensive. Accuracy is therefore vital to the process. Each transaction, whether it is a question of purchase or sale, is recorded. There are usually set structures in place for bookkeeping that are called 'quality controls', which help ensure timely and accurate records.

Accounting Review

Accounting review services are for those that already have an adequate solution in place for their monthly escrow accounting function, yet still understand the benefit and value of an independent review. Our team does an in-depth review of your accounts to ensure the reconciliations are within industry standards and that no hidden items are present to cause inadvertent losses to your firm. A quarterly review could help identify the shortages, missed deposits or bank charges that could add up to a significant cost to your firm.

Backlog Accounting

Businesses have to keep proper accounts under the UAE Commercial Companies Act, however, there are instances that small and medium-sized businesses are not able to do so. It is mandatory that businesses understand the importance of maintaining the backlog accounts, not just for the management but also for regulatory bodies such as Federal Tax Authority. AMCA will help the client to set up the backlog accounts from the date of operation of the organization. However, appropriate supporting documents are necessary to set up the books of accounts including sales invoices, purchase invoices, receipt vouchers, petty cash expenses, bank statements, check counter thwarts, bank transfer copies, and other necessary financial documents. AMCA will complete the books of account on a yearly basis.

Accounting Supervision

The accounting supervision service is similar to the function performed by a company's Chief Accountant. This solution helps protect against negative consequences of books' failure to comply with the binding regulations. We take care of: development, modification and implementation of a company's chart of accounts, development of a company's accounting policy, verification of accounting books, assistance in preparation or preparation of reporting documentation: declarations of financial statements, consultations and accounting advisory.

Regulatory Compliance and Reporting

AMCA specializes in providing tailored compliance solutions across various industries, addressing businesses' unique regulatory needs. Our seasoned experts conduct thorough assessments of applicable regulatory frameworks, identifying compliance risks and gaps. Through detailed analyses, we develop customized strategies to ensure alignment with laws, regulations, and industry standards.

Working closely with clients, we establish robust compliance programs reflecting best practices and ethical standards, mitigating regulatory risks and fostering a culture of compliance. Additionally, we offer support in navigating complex regulations like Economic Substance Regulations (ESR), Ultimate Beneficial Ownership (UBO) compliance, and Anti-Money laundering (AML) regulations, facilitating market expansion while maintaining compliance. Our solutions empower businesses to manage regulatory risks, enhance efficiency, and build trust, driving sustainable growth and success in today's regulated business environment.

ESR

Under Economic Substance Regulations (ESR), AMCA assists businesses in fulfilling their obligations related to their filing requirements and compliance. This includes providing guidance on ESR notification requirements, helping businesses understand their obligations under the regulations, and ensuring timely submission of ESR notifications to relevant regulatory authorities. Additionally, AMCA supports businesses in preparing and filing ESR reports, which involve documenting and demonstrating compliance with substance requirements.

The business operations which fall within the Relevant Activities as defined (e.g.: banking, insurance, shipping, and holding company activities) are carefully assessed to ensure compliance with ESR. Conversely, businesses undertaking Irrelevant Activities, such as those deemed purely administrative or more passive in nature, are excluded from ESR reporting to avoid unnecessary burdens on businesses. Through meticulous analysis and strategic guidance, AMCA helps businesses navigate the complexities of ESR, ensuring compliance while minimizing administrative burdens.

UBO

AMCA helps businesses comply with UBO regulations by identifying and verifying the ultimate beneficial owners of entities. Our team conducts thorough due diligence to determine the individuals or entities that ultimately own or control the business. AMCA also assists in maintaining accurate and up-to-date records of UBO information, ensuring compliance with regulatory requirements, and enhancing transparency in corporate ownership structures.

AML

Anti-Money Laundering (AML) regulations in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) constitute a multifaceted framework aimed at combatting financial crimes, preserving the integrity of the financial system, and upholding international standards of transparency. The scope of AML regulations encompasses a diverse array of entities, including Designated Non-Financial Businesses and Professions (DNFBPs), financial institutions, and Virtual Asset Service Providers (VASPs).

DNFBPs, spanning industries such as real estate, legal services, and dealers in precious metals and stones, are obligated to comply with AML regulations to prevent their services from being exploited for money laundering or terrorist financing activities. Financial institutions, comprising banks, insurance companies, and other entities engaged in financial services, are pivotal in AML efforts due to their role as gatekeepers of the financial system. They are mandated to implement stringent compliance measures, conduct customer due diligence, and report suspicious transactions to regulatory authorities.

Similarly, VASPs, which include cryptocurrency exchanges and digital asset platforms, are subject to AML regulations to mitigate the risks associated with virtual assets being utilized for illicit purposes. The UAE's AML framework outlines a comprehensive process encompassing various stages. This includes the registration of regulated entities with relevant regulatory bodies, delegation of compliance responsibilities to designated personnel, formulation and implementation of robust AML policies and procedures tailored to each entity's risk profile, conducting internal audits to ensure adherence to AML requirements, and providing assistance during regulatory surveys and assessments.

These processes collectively contribute to the effectiveness of the UAE's AML regime, fostering a culture of compliance, transparency, and accountability within the financial sector. By adopting proactive measures and fostering collaboration between regulatory authorities and regulated entities, the UAE endeavors to strengthen its defenses against financial crime, safeguard its reputation as a global financial hub, and uphold the principles of integrity and trust in its financial ecosystem.
